CALLOWAY AND KEY NAMED MOST OUTSTANDING AT COLLEGE

Keena Paige Calloway of Northport was named the 1997 recipient of the Leo Sumner Award, Shelton's highest honor, during the college's annual Honors Night ceremony that was held recently on Shelton's new campus.

Calloway, who is completing her sophomore year at the college, is a graduate of Tuscaloosa County High School. She attends Shelton on an academic scholarship and graduates from the college with a perfect 4.0 grade point average. She will transfer to the University of Alabama in the fall to pursue a degree in accounting. This spring she was selected to represent the college as its nominee to the All-USA Community and Junior College Academic Team and was named to the first team in the state.

While at Shelton, she served as vice president of finance for Phi Theta Kappa, national community college honorary, and was named to the President's List each semester while at the college and to the National Dean's List. In 1995 she started a student newspaper at the college and served as editor of the publication. She was chosen as Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges.

Calloway is an active member of Northport Baptist Church and spends time each week as a volunteer at Westwood Elementary School. She is currently employed by Moreland Signs, Inc. in Tuscaloosa. She is the daughter of Sam and Resa Calloway of Northport.

The James B. Allen Award, which is named in honor of the state's late Senator James B. Allen, is given each year in recognition of outstanding student leadership. This year's recipient is Martha Johnson Key, a wife, mother, and community volunteer.

Mrs. Key is a member of Phi Theta Kappa and served as fellowship chairman of the honorary. She was also selected to represent the college on the All USA Community and Junior College Academic Team for 1997. While at Shelton, she was named to the President's List and the Dean's List and will graduate with a 3.78 grade point average. She has also been named to the National Dean's List for Students in American Junior Colleges and was selected for Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges.

A resident of Coker, Mrs. Key has been active in her church and in her community through the years. Among other civic activities, she helped the volunteer fire department raise money, prepared Christmas dinner for the hungry, collected food and delivered it to the community soup kitchen and tutored classmates in their work. She is married to Tim T. Key and they have two children.

DON'T FORGET SHELTON'S GRADUATION SERVICES.

SHELTON STATE'S COMMENCEMENT will be held for the first time this year on the college's new campus this Thursday, May 15. The reception will be held at 6 p.m. in the dining hall and the graduation services at 7 p.m. in the gymnasium.

Alabama State Senator Henry "Hank" Sanders, D-Selma, will be the speaker.

SHELTON'S DANCE DEPARTMENT HOLDS FINAL PERFORMANCE IN SKYLAND CAMPUS

Recently, Shelton's department of dance under the direction of Louise Crofton said goodbye to the Skyland Campus auditorium as the dancers held their final performance in the old facility.

The Shelton dance department will move to their new facility located on the college's campus this summer.

Angela Horn, who has been a student in the program since it began four years ago, will join the American Ballet Theatre Summer Program and will take a position as an apprentice with the Dance Alive Company in Florida. She becomes the first dancer trained through Shelton to pursue a professional dance career.

Shelton's dance department is part of the Royal Academy of Dance, the largest examining body for classical ballet in the world. Crofton has served as an examiner of other schools for the past four years.

The program expanded the curriculum this year to include classes in theatre dance and the manor syllabus. This year the students also presented programs at Central Elementary, Englewood Elementary, and Holt Elementary schools to an audience of over 1300 students.

FACES 'N PLACES

*During the third Annual Faculty Development Consortium's Instructional Technology Conference held recently at Auburn University, Bradley Moore made a presentation entitled "Publish Your Own Web Page In An Hour." The presentation was so well received that Brad was asked to make the same presentation at the next Alabama Education Technology Conference which will be held in June in Birmingham. He will also present two hands-on workshops at the conference "Browser's Cafe." If you would like more information on the conference, contact Moore at Ext. 2640. Shelton's home page can now be seen at the url: <http://ns1.tusc.net:80/~shelton1>.

*Commercial art student

Will Cherrill recently won a design contest sponsored by the Home Builders Association. The design will appear on the Parade of Homes cover in the June 6 issue of the TUSCALOOSA NEWS. Janet O'Neil of the Home Builders Association will present Will with a $150 cash prize. A number of students competed in the competition, including students from the University of Alabama and Stillman College.

*Brice Building Company recently received the Tilt-Up Achievement Award for the outstanding use of tilt-up concrete construction at Shelton State. The award, which was presented by Tilt-Up Concrete Association, recognized the first phase of the two-phase contract that included laboratories, workshops, classrooms and a gymnasium, all of which are housed in one central building. The two phases of the building total 530,000 square feet.

*Shelton's own Jimmy Osmore recently received the Pilot Club's award for the "Handicapped Person of the Year." The award, which carries with it a number of gifts and prizes, could not have gone to a more deserving person. Congratulations Jimmy!

*Shelton's Practical Nursing

Students Organization and APTOR, a local physical therapy group, co-sponsored the GREAT STRIDES WALK for Cystic Fibrosis recently. Despite cold rainy conditions, five teams showed up to walk. A total of $1743 was raised that morning as part of the walk and more donations are still expected. Jennifer Jones, a first-semester practical nursing student, collected the most money for the Shelton team and as a result, she won lunch for two at La Fiesta. The SSAPNS also sponsored a blood drive recently on the new campus that was quite successful.

*Shelton student Wallace Spidle was recently recognized for his service as an intern to Tuscaloosa Travel and Tourism Bureau. Spidle is a student majoring in travel and tourism at Shelton.

*The Shelton Library asks that if you need the help or services of Jimmy Osmore to please submit a written request to the director of library services, Deborah Grimes. The request can be a simple memo, but it must include a detailed description of the project.

*Shelton Humanities Division Chair Jim Jolly recently spent a weekend in Atlanta, Georgia, at a National Council of Teachers of English Affiliate Leadership Conference. Jim represented the Association of College English Teachers of Alabama and joined representatives from other southern states.

*According to the latest statistics from Shelton's office of institutional research, 1,254 students submitted applications during January, February, and March for Summer, Fall, and Spring semesters at Shelton. Of those students submitting applications, 554 have already enrolled for a percentage of 44%.

Marilyn Terry's Spanish classes and Lee Albritton's chemistry and astronomy classes supported an interesting project this spring. They sent $79 to the Peace Corps Partnership Program as part of the Tiquina de San Pablo High School World Map Project in Bolivia. Albritton's son, Pressly, is a Peace Corps volunteer who is coordinating the project. As part of the project, children will construct a map on their classroom wall and will trace each individual country onto this map. After all the countries are drawn, the children will paint the map. Pressly plans to include Shelton State on this world map.

QUALITY COUNCIL (QC) SEEKS CUSTOMER PARTICIPATION

*And who are Shelton's primary customers? Students, of course. The Quality Council believes it is now time for students to take part on TEAMSpirit and be represented on the system improvement teams (SIT) and the Quality Council.

After holding several brainstorming sessions, an Advance Team selected by SITeam representatives on the QC, decided to develop an informational handout to attract the students' attention. Copies of the handout are posted on campus along with an application form.

Information is given on the form about how students can participate. The QC will also approach some student organizations for proposed candidates. Hopefully, there will be student members on each team by the beginning of the 1997-98 Fall Semester. Students are encouraged to apply.
